What makes our documents different?

All our policies:

Are risk based

Allowing the licensee to determine which “risk-based” obligations they will include in their policies. Those obligations are highlighted in blue, so you can keep or delete them. One key gripe from advisers is that they’re told to do things by their licensee that the law doesn’t require (like provide a written ROA to a client in a further advice situation).

Are easy to understand

They are written in first person, plain English.

Include an “at a glance” section

Each policy includes a 1-page “at a glance” section for those advisers that only have enough time (or willpower!) to read one page. At the other end of the spectrum, we include endnote references so you can see the legislation that sits behind the policy.

Are regularly updated

All documents are on a rotating update schedule. This schedule is reviewed and adjusted monthly based on legislative changes, as well as subscriber demand.

Are practical

Our review panel consists of both lawyers and an ex-financial planner. We also adjust documents over time based on user feedback, as we strive to keep documents compliant and practical.

How do we update our documents?

The HN Hub Dashboard and monthly newsletter will alert you to new and updated documents. And for those who have access to our monthly Wrap Up webinars, we discuss any key documents that have been updated in more detail, and the key changes that were made.

Each updated version will provide clear information of what has changed from the previous version, so you can decide whether to amend the version you have, or download the newer template.

There’s also an archive section if you need it to source older versions that you may have downloaded in the past.
